

'69 Seasons

EbzB Productions, the team that brought you War Bonds: The Songs and Letters of World War II, takes you from “The Ed Sullivan Show” to Woodstock, with a James Brown groove and a piece of Janis Joplin's heart. Visit Richard Nixon's oval office and Charles Manson's jail cell. Deploy from the home front to Vietnam and back with a new understanding.

With a book by Howard L. Craft and Music Direction by Kevin Wilson, '69 Seasons explores one of the most fascinating years in America's history. Through music, comedy, tumult and visits with icons of the time, audiences experience how the events of 1969 affected the lives of three average Americans. A photo journalist, (Serena Ebhardt) torn between two loves and on the biggest assignment of her life; An army sergeant (David zum Brunnen) who always wanted to be in the military finds himself lost and in doubt as his platoon prepares for bloody battle in Vietnam; A young African-American woman (Rasool Jahan) confronts racism, sexism, and alienation as she journeys from her home in the south to Chicago in search of what her small town roots cannot offer.

'69 Seasons turns, turns and turns leaving audiences with memories that take them to the moon and back again.
